Petition for a human rights watchdog

actionaid

There is concerning evidence pointing to the misconduct of Australian fossil fuel companies operating in low income countries. But when a community's rights are violated, there is no Australian body that can deliver justice when grievances are made.

We can't let fossil fuel companies continue to trample on communities overseas and take no responsibility.

We're calling on all politicians to pledge their support for an effective human rights watchdog that would deliver justice for women and communities impacted by Australian fossil fuel companies operating overseas.
